OPPOSITION TO “MOTION OF THE DEBTORS FOR AN ORDER COMPELLING
MESOTHELIOMA CLAIMANTS TO COMPLY WITH THIS COURT’S QUESTIONNAIRE ORDER AND OVERRULING OBJECTIONS TO THE QUESTIONNAIRE” FILED ON BEHALF OF CERTAIN CLIENTS OF MOTLEY RICE LLC

COMES NOW, asbestos personal injury and wrongful death claimants represented by Motley Rice LLC, (“Motley Rice”) by and through the undersigned counsel, respectfully submits this response and objection (“Objection”) to the Debtors’ Motion to Compel Mesothelioma Claimants to Comply with This Court’s Questionnaire Order and Overruling Objections to the Questionnaire (“Motion”). In support of the Objection, Motley Rice respectfully responds as follows:

Preliminary Statement

Debtor’s or Debtor’s agent, Rust Consulting Inc. (“Rust”) sent 201 Mesothelioma Questionnaires to Motley Rice or to Motley Rice affiliated co-counsel. None of the Questionnaires included any unique identifier to definitively identify the particular claimant Motley Rice was to respond. In fact, many of the Questionnaires did not even identify the person suffering or who had suffered from mesothelioma: the name of another individual was included. Some questionnaires included “EXEC” after the name with no other explanation or identifier.

Our office had a team of two paralegals supervised by an attorney who spent hours looking up each name on the questionnaires received to try to match to a particular mesothelioma claimant. Family member names were searched as well. Disease levels were searched. This process took approximately 3 to 4 days to accomplish. The results were then reviewed by a senior paralegal and associate attorney in order to determine if a questionnaire could be "tagged" to the correct claimant. In some cases, individuals with common names rendered multiple results with numerous cases to review to try to determine if a match existed. In all, it took approximately 5 days to simply identify possible claimants in our system. This did not include any time spent in actually answering the questionnaires.

General information about Responses

1. For those claimants who could not be identified with certainty, the questionnaire was not completed. This includes, but is not limited to claimants with the same name.
2. For those claimants who were not diagnosed with mesothelioma, the questionnaire was not completed, as the questionnaire is to be completed only for individuals suffering from mesothelioma.
3. For those claimants where the case was closed, settled or dismissed against Debtors, the questionnaire was not completed.
4. For certain claimants where Motley Rice co-counsel had responsibility for the case (Motley Rice does not represent the client for purposes of the Debtor's bankruptcy) we corresponded with co-counsel and forwarded to them the questionnaires. Co-counsel has, to our knowledge, corresponded with Debtors or Rust as to the status of those claims. Attached is a copy of Co-counsel Janet Ward Black's letter dated October 28, 2011 directed to Rust consulting listing a number of cases, three of which are included in Debtor's Supplemental Exhibit 2: Gordon W.

Forshee, Bennie R. Jordan and George Talbot, whereby she informed Rust that the no proof of claim would be submitted against Garlock due to lack of product identification. (Exhibit A) Rust was notified, yet Debtors continue to incorrectly report to this Court that no response has been received. Rust's ability to transmit information already relayed is obviously flawed.

5. In certain circumstances Motley Rice has responsibility for the case and co-counsel forwarded questionnaires to us. We responded to those questionnaires unless they fell into one of the above categories. Motley Rice never received a questionnaire for the Siebert matter. This matter was settled and should not be a part of the Questionnaire process. Motley Rice responded to questionnaires on behalf of 123 claimants. We did not submit questionnaires on behalf of mesothelioma claimants who were not provided with a questionnaire by Debtors.

6. In addition, Motley Rice has prepared supplemental information as to all cases listed in Debtors Motion and forward same to Rust and Debtors counsel. (Exhibit B).

7. In each case where a questionnaire was received from Debtors or Rust, or forwarded by co-counsel and the claimant could be identified with certainty, the questionnaire was responded to. Certain questions, in particular, many of the 5(A) and 5 (B) Exposure questions could only be objected to and responded as "Discovery is ongoing", as Discovery has been stayed due to Debtors' bankruptcy. For those claimants where discovery had been substantially completed or completed, transcripts of depositions or affidavits were attached. The only information not provided which Garlock does not already have is the timing of settlements paid by solvent defendants or asbestos bankruptcy trusts, as to which we objected. It is impossible to tell from the Debtors' motions exactly why it thinks Motley Rice's Questionnaire responses are deficient and no one from the Debtors has ever attempted to meet and confer with us about any deficiencies. In an abundance of caution, to the extent that the client has been deposed, we have provided the Debtors and Rust by supplement dated February 8, 2012 with another copy of the client's deposition or applicable portion of deposition. (Garlock should already have all of these deposition transcripts, as its counsel would have been present at every deposition). As Garlock well knows, the deposition of a mesothelioma victim usually covers in exhaustive detail all the types of work with asbestos products and asbestos exposures that the client knows about, and the complaint (which Garlock also has for each case) lists those defendants which counsel has a good faith basis to believe that exposure to the products of the named defendants has occurred even though the evidence of exposure has not yet been developed.

8. Motley Rice had a team of approximately 10 paralegals researching and completing questionnaires for about two weeks. We reviewed work histories, site information and status of cases. We have reasonably responded to the Questionnaires, given the burdens imposed. Debtors' have their own files and resources and need to review their own information as well. We object to the extent of the burdens imposed to further responding to this process.

Joinder

Motley Rice claimants hereby and herewith joins in, adopted and incorporates by reference those portions of the Response of the Simmons, Browder, et al. law firm, any papers filed by the Garlock ACC, and any papers filed by any other plaintiff law firm to the extent relevant to the issues Garlock raised with us addressing why the Debtors' Motion to Compel should be dismissed.

Conclusion

For the reasons set forth in this Objection, Motley Rice respectfully submits that the relief requested in the Motion should be denied.

My law firm serves as counsel for the individuals named above who were provided questionnaires for completion. We no longer have sufficient evidence to complete the product identification section of these questionnaires for these individuals. If their actions were not stayed in the tort system at this time, we would take a dismissal. RE: Garlock Sealing Technologies Questionnaire

Dear Sirs:

Enclosed please find a CD with information supplementing Questionnaires previously filed. A Table of Contents is enclosed which designates each file and the information supplemented.

I have included as Exhibit "A" a spreadsheet of twelve (12) cases listed on Exhibit 2 of the Motion to Compel. Please note that in each case, with the exception of the Robert J. Dion matter, the case is closed, has settled with Garlock, or our co-counsel have advised us that they communicated with Garlock's counsel that the case was closed or not proceeding against Garlock. See also a copy of Ward Black Law firm letter dated October 28, 2011 advising that questionnaires would not be submitted for five cases, three of which (Forshee, Jordan and Talbot) are affiliated with Motley Rice.

We have filed a questionnaire in Robert J. Dion. A duplicate Questionnaire with supplemental information is enclosed for your ready reference.

Also included is a list of thirty eight (38) cases as Exhibit "B". These cases could not be identified in our system, the case was settled or our co-counsel will be responding to the Questionnaire. Due to lack of a unique identifier, the majority of these could not be matched in our system to a client suffering from mesothelioma.

MT. PLEASANT, SC | PROVIDENCE, RI | HARTFORD, CT | NEW YORK, NY
MORGANTOWN, WV | WASHINGTON, DC | LOS ANGELES, CA

Motley Rice LLP operates the California office.

The remaining one hundred twenty three (123) cases have been supplemented on the CD. Please note that we have included the Rust claim number in our enclosures, as well as on the CD for each matter.

Motley Rice reserves the right to further supplement as needed.

Yours very truly,

Jeanette M. Gilbert
